

Observer's Guide to This Year's Must-Visit September Art Fairs

The September art fair calendar is, as usual, packed to the gills—there are the Armory Show-adjacent fairs in New York and a glorious gallimaufry of domestic and international art events around the globe.

By Christa Terry • 08/27/24 2:00pm

These are the art fairs not to miss in September. Courtesy VOLTA

MENART FAIR 2024

September 20-22

The fifth edition of this Paris art fair in the heart of the Marais district will be an all-female event, with a focus on the women's art scene in the Middle East and Northern Africa (MENA). The work showcased at this year's MENART FAIR—the first international contemporary art fair dedicated to artists from MENA nations—will both examine the legacy of pioneering women artists in the region and provide a platform for contemporary creators. Questions of gender will be explored, as the twenty-nine participating galleries exhibiting work in the Galerie Joseph Saint Merri highlight the richness of the Arab-Persian art scene. Kicking off the fair will be an invitation-only performance by Lebanese drag icons Andrea & Diva.